Men's Preview

The stage is set for an unpredictable battle to win the men's 2008 NCAA III championships on Hanover College's eight-kilometer course.

The top two teams in the nation are positioned to go head-to-head for the first time this season. The defending national champions earned the opportunity to defend their title. The field is loaded with challengers from the nation's top programs.

Top-ranked Cortland State University (N.Y.) seeks its first men's cross country title. The Red Dragons placed four runners in the top 14 slots to win the Atlantic Regional last weekend. Senior Josh Henry led the squad with a third-place finish in 25:46.5 Senior Seamus Nally finished fifth in the regional. Junior Seth Dubois was sixth in that race and only 1.4 seconds separated the trio.

North Central College (Ill.) is the most-decorated program in NCAA III history. The Cardinals, ranked second in the nation, have won 12 nationals crowns, but have not hoisted the top trophy since 1999.

North Central won the Midwest Regional last week with seven runners finishing in the top 25. The Cardinals return four of their top five runners from last year's 16th-place national finish. Only 7.2 seconds separated North Central's top five runners in that meet.

New York University, ranked seventh in the country, advanced to the national race with a second-place finish in the Atlantic Regional. The Violets placed two runners in the top 10 spots and all five in the first 26 positions to earn a chance to repeat as champions. Senior Jesse Schneider led New York with a second-place finish in 25:32.9. Schneider was 21st in the nation last year.

Perennial-power Calvin College (Mich.) will strive for its fifth NCAA title this decade. The Knights have won the championship in 2006, 2005, 2003 and 2000, with the 2003 crown coming on this course. Ranked fourth in the nation, Calvin is led by five seniors. The Knights, behind a 1-2 punch of Jed Christiansen and Erik Van Kampen, earned the Great Lakes Regional title by placing four runners in the top 10 positions.

Sophomore Mike Spain and North Central College (Ill.) are after the Cardinals' 13th title and first since 1999

Wheaton College (Ill.) senior Brandon Mull was 10th at the NCAA finale last year and won the Midwest Regional championship with a time of 24:33.6. Bethel University (Minn.) junior Dan Greeno was 22nd at last year's NCAA meet. He was second in the Central Regional in 25:39.9 and has the top time on Hanover's course this season (25:31.32).

Veterans from the highly-ranked teams will also factor in the individual title hunt.

Cortland State's Nally placed eighth in the nation last season. Carnegie Mellon University (Pa.), ranked eighth in the country, will have senior Brian Harvey near the front of the pack. Harvey placed 12th in the nation last year and won last weekend's Mideast Regional in 25:10. The University of Wisconsin-LaCrosse junior Paul Moran led the Eagles to a second-place finish in the Midwest Regional with a third-place finish in 24:50.1.

New York University's Violets, led by senior Jesse Schneider, will chase the school's first back-to-back national titles

Two-time NCAA champion Williams College (Mass.) placed three runners in the first five spots to win the New England Regional last weekend. The Ephs, which won the NCAA title in 1994 and 1995, are ranked sixth in the nation. Junior Edgar Kosgey led the group in the regional, winning in 25:52.7.

Sixteenth-ranked Centre College (Ky.) slipped past 22nd-ranked Emory University (Ga.) to win the South-Southeast Regional. Senior Chase Wilson led four Colonels in the first 11 spots, winning the meet in 25:23.

The race for the individual NCAA championship will be hotly-contested.

Hamilton College (N.Y.) junior Peter Kosgei was the only underclassman in the top seven positions in last year's championship. He placed second overall in 24:36.2. He won last weekend's Atlantic Regional by more than 14 seconds with a time of 25:18.8.

Wheaton College (Ill.) senior Brandon Mull was 10th at the NCAA finale last year and won the Midwest Regional championship with a time of 24:33.6. Bethel University (Minn.) junior Dan Greeno was 22nd at last year's NCAA meet. He was second in the Central Regional in 25:39.9 and has the top time on Hanover's course this season (25:31.32).

Veterans from the highly-ranked teams will also factor in the individual title hunt.

Cortland State's Nally placed eighth in the nation last season. Carnegie Mellon University (Pa.), ranked eighth in the country, will have senior Brian Harvey near the front of the pack. Harvey placed 12th in the nation last year and won last weekend's Mideast Regional in 25:10. The University of Wisconsin-LaCrosse junior Paul Moran led the Eagles to a second-place finish in the Midwest Regional with a third-place finish in 24:50.1.

Women's Preview

The clash for the NCAA's women's championship will be intense as the nation's top squads and a solid collection of individuals attack Hanover College's six-kilometer course.

Top-ranked Middlebury College (Vt.), which has won four national championships and claimed the 2003 NCAA title on this course, won the New England Regional with a 57-point outing. The Panthers placed three runners in the top-10.

Senior Alexandra Krieg led Middlebury with a third-place finish in 22:34.5. She placed third in the NCAA finale last year.

Second-ranked Calvin College (Mich.) bids for its third national title and the first since 1999. The Knights placed five runners in the first 12 positions to win the Great Lakes Regional with 42 points. Junior Lauren Bergstrom and senior Calah Schlabach finished 4-5 to lead the effort.

Williams College (Mass.), ranked third in the nation, earned a slot in the championship with a second-place finish in the New England Regional. Led by senior Lauren Philbrook's second-place finish (22:28.9), the Ephs finished 25 points behind Middlebury in the regional meet.

Amherst College (Mass.), the defending national champions, earned an at-large berth in the 32-team field. The Lady Jeffs finished fifth in last week's New England Regional. Senior Elise Tropiano captured the regional title with a time of 21:49.3. Tropiano finished more than nearly 40 seconds ahead of the field.

Wartburg College (Iowa), ranked fifth in the nation, captured the Central Regional last week. The Knights edged eighth-ranked Luther College (Iowa), 92-95, to win the crown. Junior Anna Kraayenbrink led Wartburg with a second-place finish in 22:02.4.

The University of Wisconsin-Eau Claire won the Midwest Regional championship with a 108-point effort and chases its first national title. Senior Mary Palmer led the fourth-ranked Blugolds with a sixth-place finish in 21:53.8. Only nine points separated Eau Claire from sixth-ranked Wisconsin-La Crosse (115) and seventh-ranked Washington University (Mo.), which had 117 points.

Two teams from the Atlantic Region will be a factor in the NCAA finale. Geneseo State University (N.Y.), ranked ninth in the country, posted a victory at last week's regional with a 64-point effort, squeaking past Cortland State University (N.Y.) by eight points.

Geneseo, which won the 2005 NCAA title, was led by Alyssa Smith. The freshman placed sixth overall with a time of 23:23.9 and led four Knights in the top 11 positions.

Willamette University (Ore.) senior Maddie Coffman will chase the school's third consecutive individual title.

Cortland State, ranked 12th in the country, has won six national championships and is shooting for its first crown since 1997. Sophomore Andi Palen led the Red Dragons with a fifth-place finish in 23:17.

The battle for the NCAA's individual championship could be furious.

Willamette University (Ore.) senior Maddie Coffman will try to give the school its third consecutive individual champion in the event. Coffman, who was 11th in the nation last year, won the West Regional last week in 21:26.9, which ranks as the fastest winning time of the eight regionals. Willamette's Sarah Zerzan captured the past two NCAA titles.

Oberlin College (Ohio) sophomore Joanna Johnson has not lost a race this season. She earned the Great Lakes Region crown with a time of 21:51.76.

Bethel University (Minn.) junior Marie Borner claimed the Central Regional championship by more than 30 seconds, winning in 21:28.1. Borner, who placed 17th in the nation last season, has the fastest time of the season on this course. She won Hanover's Pre-National Meet Oct. 4 with a time of 21:24.27.

The University of Wisconsin-River Falls junior Becca Jordahl was fourth in the nation last season. She posted a time of 21:32 to place second at the Midwest Regional last weekend. Jordahl was second at Hanover's Pre-National Meet, just three seconds behind Borner.

The University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh junior Ayla Mitchell finished 13th in the nation last year. She is coming off a victory in the Midwest Regional with a time of 21:28.2.

Luther senior Janet Dobyms finished fifth in the NCAA finale last year. She was sixth in last week's Central Regional with a time of 22:34.9.

Senior Calah Schlabach and the Calvin College (Mich.) Knights will bid for the school's third national crown.
