French
Dalka, Kirkland, Randall.

The study of French begins with a two-semester sequence depending on the student’s previous experience with the language. Students with two or more years of high school foreign language experience and who wish to continue that same language at Hanover MUST take the placement test administered by the Department of Modern Languages before enrolling in a language course. Students who have had two years or less of high school French can place into 115, 116, 217, 218, or above 218. Students who have had three years or more of high school French must start at 116 or above depending upon placement test results.

Failure to follow the appropriate sequence may jeopardize receipt of credit.

By-pass credit opportunity: Students who place directly into 218, and who earn a grade of B or better for the course will receive credit for 217 upon application to the Registrar. In order to fulfill the LADR, these students must take an advanced level course after completing 218. Students who place above 218 and who subsequently enroll in an advanced level course and earn a grade of B or better will receive credit for the appropriate prerequisite course upon application to the Registrar. In order to fulfill the LADR, these students must take a second advanced level course.

Major: French courses – Either 227 or 228; 237 or 238; 457 or 471 (culminating experience); and five courses above 217, at least four of which must be above the 200 level. Comprehensive evaluation with passing grade. Total of 8 major courses.

Minor: French courses – Either 227 or 228; 237 or 238; three others, not including 115, 116, or 217. Total of 5 minor courses.

Majors and minors are encouraged to participate in an off-campus study program in a francophone area if at all possible.

Fre 115. Beginning French I. An introduction to basic modes of communication in the target language. Emphasis is on everyday language while developing speaking, listening, reading, and writing as well as introducing cultures of the target language.

Fre 116. Beginning French II. A continuation of French 115. Prerequisite: Fre 115 or placement into 116.

Fre 217. Intermediate French. Reinforcement and expansion of grammatical and phonological patterns. Emphasis given to developing speaking, listening, reading, and writing skills as well as study of cultures of the target language. Prerequisite: Fre 116 or placement into 217.

Fre 218. Advanced Intermediate French. Advanced study involving expansion and synthesis of knowledge and understanding of the target language and its cultures. Prerequisite: Fre 217 or placement into 218.

Old General Degree Requirement descriptions indicating the last semester offered:
Fre 111, 112. Beginning French I, II. A two-term introduction to French for students who have never studied the language. (111 last offered fall 2002; 112 last offered winter 2003.)
Fre 113, 213. Continuing French I, II. A two-term course of French for students with previous study of the language. Placement by examination. (113 last offered fall 2002; 213 last offered winter 2003.)

Fre 211. Intermediate French. Comprehensive structural review. Prerequisite: 112 or placement by examination. (211 last offered fall 2002).

Fre 220. Advanced Language in the Cultural Context. Advanced language study with emphasis on the development of written and oral expression on cultural topics. Prerequisite: Either 211 or 213 or placement. Satisfies General Degree Requirement V.C. (220 last offered spring 2003.)

Fre 221. Advanced Language in the Literary Context. Advanced language study with emphasis on comprehension and analysis of a variety of texts reflecting the various literary styles, forms, genres, and sub-genres. Prerequisite: Either 211 or 213 or placement. Satisfies General Degree Requirement V.C. (221 last offered winter 2002.)

Fre 160. Special Topics.

Fre 227. Off-Campus French Conversation in a Contemporary Context. Conducted in a French-speaking country. Intensive work in oral expression, focusing on practical situations and contemporary issues, by means of a variety of texts. Prerequisite: successful completion of old 220, old 221 or new 218 and permission of instructor. Fre 237 is recommended. After taking Fre 227, Fre 228 cannot be taken for credit. Fre 227 may be repeated once for credit.

Fre 228. On-Campus French Conversation in a Contemporary Context. Intensive work in oral expression, focusing on practical situations and contemporary issues, by means of a variety of texts. Prerequisite: successful completion of old 220, old 221 or new 218. Offered alternate years. May precede Fre 227, but may not be taken after Fre 227.

The following courses are limited to students who have taken old Fre 220, old Fre 221, or new Fre 218 or who have been placed there through a placement examination administered by Hanover College. Acceptance into one of these courses without 218 requires SPECIAL PERMISSION of the instructor. All readings, discussions, and compositions in these courses are in French. Fre 320, 333, 334, 335, 336, and 423 satisfy General Degree Requirement II.B.

Fre 237. French Culture and Civilization I. Reading, discussion and presentation of the social, economic, geographic and political structures of contemporary France, as well as general study of the country’s history and artistic expression from the Gallo-Roman era through the 17th century. Offered alternate years.

Fre 238. French Culture and Civilization II. Reading, discussion, and presentation of the social, economic, geographic, and political structures of France, as well as general study of the country’s history and artistic expression from the 18th to 20th centuries. May also include discussions of cultures and civilizations of non-European Francophone countries. Offered alternate years.

Fre 260. Special Topics.

Fre 307. Directed Study .50 unit.

Fre 320. Introduction to French Literature. An introductory course on the three principal genres of French and Francophone literature – prose, theatre, and poetry – with emphasis on comprehension and literary/stylistic analysis. This course will prepare students for more extensive readings in advanced French literature courses.

Fre 333. 17th-Century French Literature. A study of representative major works of prose, poetry, and theatre from the Baroque and Classical periods.

Fre 334. 18th-Century French Literature. A study of representative major works of prose, poetry, and theatre from the Enlightenment and pre-Romantic periods.

Fre 336. 20th-Century French Literature. A study of representative major works of prose, poetry, and theatre from the Surrealist, Existentialist, and Absurdist movements. May also include representative works of non-European Francophone literatures.

Fre 357. Internship. Off-campus supervised experience in French.

Fre 360. Special Topics.

Fre 370. Directed Study. One unit.

Fre 423. French Middle Ages and 16th-Century Literature. Emphasis on the medieval epic and romance and on Rabelais, Montaigne and representative poets of the French Renaissance.

Fre 457. Academic Internship as the Culminating Experience.

Fre 471. Independent Study. Each student will choose a topic, carry out the necessary research and write an extensive paper in French.